About the Programme

The Summer School on Internet Governance and International Law is an intensive, internationally oriented academic programme hosted by the Faculty of Law and Administration at the University of Lodz, Poland. Running from 20 to 25 July 2026, the programme brings together students, academics, and practitioners from partner universities across Europe and beyond.

The programme combines an online preparatory component (June–July 2026) with a five-day residential week in Lodz, offering participants a rigorous and practice-oriented curriculum that bridges legal theory and digital policy.

What Participants Will Gain

- Expert-led lectures on international law, cybercrime, and critical infrastructure protection
- Hands-on workshops, simulations, and policy exercises
- Engagement with leading practitioners from international organisations
- Access to a growing international network of cyber governance professionals
